Scope

Acta Zoologica is an international journal publishing original research papers and reviews in the fields of animal organization, development, structure and function, from the cellular level to phylogenetic and ecological levels.

Manuscripts

Manuscripts should be sent to the Editor.

Manuscripts submitted should not be under consideration or accepted elsewhere. Manuscripts to be considered must conform strictly with the instructions to authors.

Papers of up to 24 printed pages (including illustrations, tables, references, etc.) are printed without page charge; authors who wish to submit larger papers are advised to contact the editor in advance.
